

Abstract

A method and apparatus to compensate for interference between signals within a wireless communication system using dirty paper coding to compensate for interference on the downlink and multi-user detection 5 to compensate for interference on uplink.